Poole Audi's New Centre Sign Off

Audi AG, the brand's global head office, has given the final sign off to Poole Audi's new £14.5m centre on Old Wareham Road in the Dorset town.

The new centre, which occupies a 4.5 acre site, took 14 months to build, and was officially opened to its customers in August (to read about this sensational state-of-the-art centre, please CLICK HERE to see our Wheels-Alive coverage).

After two months of trading, the German marque's architect, Jurgen Sichau, visited the centre for final sign off. He was highly impressed by the outstanding facilities throughout the building, including a beauty salon, gym and lounge area, which would not be out of place at a five star hotel.

Jurgen said: "Poole Audi is probably one of the very best Audi Terminals in the world. A remarkable project of top level quality."

Poole Audi's Head of Business, Mark Laming, said: "To have such incredible feedback from Audi AG is truly something to be proud of, and it really reflects all of the vision and hard work that has gone into the new centre.

"We were determined to raise the bar for customer experience and the initial feedback we have received has been excellent. This has been backed up by very good sales with a record period in August and September."

Danny's internal promotion has coincided with the business's recent move into the brand new 4.5 acre, £14.5m Audi Centre on Old Wareham Road.

Danny said: "This is a fabulous promotion for me - I can still deal with my customers and pair this with the experience I have of Poole Audi and its business values, and I can continue to deliver service of the highest level".
