Hundreds of sensation supercars are set to gather at the the home of the National Motor Museum once again on the 3rd and 4th August for the highly anticipated Beaulieu Supercar Weekend.

As one of the biggest dedicated supercar weekends on the south coast, petrol head enthusiasts won't want to miss a second of this jam-packed itinerary, which will attract some of the most rare and desirable motoring machines in the world.

One stand-out feature that always draws the crowds is the exhilarating supercar parades, which will showcase some of the most sought after supercars travelling along Beaulieu's renowned Chestnut Avenue. See a spectacular selection of supercars take the stage throughout the day and hear the sound of their engines as they rev their way around the parade.

Supercar admirers and families alike will delight in the astonishing special displays taking place on the private lawns of Palace House. Marvel at some of the world's most extraordinary supercars displayed impressively in what will be the shows biggest Hypercar and Prestige display yet. Already confirmed as attending the show is a Pagani Huayra Roadster, the last one of just one hundred built. Stay tuned for more upcoming announcements soon.

The displays don't end there. Long-standing supporter of Beaulieu events, Brookspeed, will display a variety of supercars from McLaren and Porsche to a Daytona Cobra. Their impressive collection of remarkable road and race cars are certainly not to be missed and will take centre stage in the events arena.

A much-anticipated returning feature that is sure to get hearts racing is the thrilling supercar sound-off. Head back to Beaulieu's events arena to witness a range of supercars compete for the loudest cheer from the audience by demonstrating the powerful sound of their engine, all relayed on the big screen by sponsor, Apogee. Who will receive the celebratory trophy? The decision lies with the applauding spectators.

Sporting Bears will also be returning to Beaulieu Supercar Weekend 2024, raising money for a variety of children's charities. Make sure you pop over and purchase raffle tickets to be in with a chance of winning your seat in the supercar parades. Since the Club was formed in 1989, the bears have raised over £3,000,000 for children's charities in the UK.

As always, clubs are a key aspect of the show, and members are invited to park their supercars in the Beaulieu parkland, offering the opportunity to catch up with fellow owners and admire one another's prized vehicles.

This year's Drivers Marquee Sponsor is NFU Mutual. John Heather, Senior Agent at NFU Mutual New Forest, Isle of Wight and Bournemouth said:

"We're delighted to be getting behind the wheel to sponsor this Beaulieu's Supercar Weekend. We continue to work closely with Beaulieu and are aware this is one of the premier motoring events of the year. We're looking forward to meeting the drivers and visitors at the Drivers Marquee on the weekend".

Attendees to Beaulieu's Supercar Weekend will also be able to enjoy all that Beaulieu has to offer. Take a visit to the award-winning National Motor Museum for one of the finest collections of motoring memorabilia in the world as well as the popular World of Top Gear. Families will love the adventure play area Little Beaulieu, and the beautiful Palace House, medieval Beaulieu Abbey and accompanying grounds and gardens are a must-see.
