Intermotor Group has announced that it will be offering ice hockey fans the opportunity to purchase exclusive Intermotor-branded, player-worn warm-up jerseys from Team GB, with all proceeds being donated to prostate cancer charity.

The limited-edition jerseys will be available on Saturday 2nd May before Team GB's game against Italy in Nottingham and sold alongside preorders for the ones worn in Nottingham, giving supporters the chance to secure a unique piece of match memorabilia.

Both preordered and game-worn jerseys will be available to buy, with all profits raised from the sales going directly to prostate cancer charity, helping to fund vital research, awareness and support services for those affected by the disease.

Emily Toomey, Projects Director at Intermotor Group said: "It's fantastic to be able to offer supporters something special while also contributing to a cause that affects so many lives. Supporting prostate cancer research and awareness is incredibly important to us and we're pleased that we are able to support this initiative and help make a difference."

Fans are encouraged to visit the Intermotor Group stand at the Nottingham game on
