James Bond fans are in for a treat as one of the Land Rover Defenders from the latest Bond film ‘No Time to Die’ is now on display at the British Motor Museum. The film, which stars Daniel Craig in his fifth and final Bond film, aired in cinemas on 30 September.

One of three Defender V8s used in the high octane woodland car chase scene, this Defender V8 will appear at the Museum in its authentic, battered and bruised state. The vehicle, which sets new standards for toughness and capability, was truly pushed to its limits by the film’s stunt team.

The Defender will go on display until late January 2022 in the main entrance. Other cars from film and TV Film also on show in the Museum include Del Boy's Reliant Robin, the Land Rover Defender from 'Skyfall', Lady Penelope's FAB1, the Land Rover Defender from 'Laura Croft Tomb Raider', the Land Rover CAB from 'Judge Dredd' and a replica of the DeLorean from 'Back to the Future.

Cat Griffin, Curator, said "We're so excited to have this infamous Defender on display at the Museum until the New Year. I'm sure the car from the iconic film will be of much interest to our visitors especially over the festive period".
